ANNCR: John McCain is right about one thing: it's time for change in Washington.

The fact is that McCain and his party have controlled the White House since 2001, and controlled Congress for 12 of the last 14 years.

They took a record surplus, and turned it into record deficits.

They took record worker productivity, and turned it into falling family income.

They took their sights off Osama Bin Ladin, and misled us about weapons in Iraq.

And they took thousands of brave American soldiers away from their families — forever.

Every step of the way, John McCain worked hand-in-hand with George W. Bush, voting with his administration more than 90% of the time. And now the so-called "Original Maverick" is pretending that he's not part of the problem.

So yes, it is time for change in Washington: time to take America back from the disastrous policies of John McCain and his party.

On November 4, vote for the change we need. Vote Barack Obama for President of the United States.
